

Terms and Conditions for Internet and Computer Usage

NOTE

This translation is only meant to facilitate the understanding of the canonical Swedish text.
Proxxi will only accept the signed terms and conditions in Swedish.

These terms and conditions regulate the responsibilities pertaining to the usage of the internet connection and the computers belonging to the organisation Proxxi. It is a contract between the person _____ and the organisation Proxxi, represented by its authorised signatory. Once the person has accepted this contract by signing it, the organisation will create a user account giving the person access to the internet through the organisation's internet connection.

If the organisation suffers harm due to disallowed activities performed during a session with the person's account, the organisation has the right to demand full compensation from the person in question. In case of violation of this contract the organisation reserves the right to temporarily or permanently shut down the person's account. The person is responsible for any and all usage of his or her account that is harmful to others than the organisation.

The person is responsible for keeping his or her login information secret. If the person suspects that the information has been spread, the person is required to contact the organisation.

If the person notices other people breaking the rules specified in this contract the person is required to report the violation to the organisation.

The person is allowed to use the internet connection for his or her email and other personal non-commercial communication that is neither illegal nor offensive.

When using the computers and the internet connection the following are specifically disallowed:

1. Activities that are irreconcilable with the purpose paragraphs in the constitutions of the organisations GAM or Proxxi.
2. Activities that violate the policy of equality adopted by the organisation GAM.
3. Activities that damage or disturb the computers or computer networks of the organisation Proxxi.

The person is responsible for keeping himself or herself up to date regarding the contents of the constitutions and policy of equality mentioned above.